Anna Koo is an internationally certified dog trainer and behaviour consultant, and the founder of Mutt Matters in Singapore. She holds multiple professional credentials and has trained under two of the world's leading names in modern, science-based dog training — Jean Donaldson and Pat Miller.

Anna's journey into dog training began in 2013, when she started rehoming, fostering and rehabilitating rescued street dogs for local dog shelters and independent rescue groups. Witnessing how behavioural issues — especially aggression — often led to failed adoptions, Anna started helping families on their dogs' behavioural challenges so that these dogs could stay in their homes.

In 2018, Anna left a high-flying corporate career and spent 6 months in the U.S. apprenticing under Pat Miller, becoming Singapore's only Pat Miller Certified Trainer (PMCT). She later graduated with Honours from the rigorous science-based, 2-year programme at The Academy for Dog Trainers — widely regarded as the 'Harvard of dog training' — under the direct mentorship of Jean Donaldson.

Today, Anna specialises in modifying complex behavioural issues such as reactivity and aggression, using ethical, evidence-based methods rooted in behavioural science. Her mission: to help misunderstood dogs succeed — and their humans get it right.
