Growing Green is about nurturing and growing our people, and creating a culture of innovation and change.
NParks believes in being a nurturing organisation that invests in and develops our staff to realise our mission of making Singapore our garden. In ensuring that NParks’ staff have job fulfilment, as well as to help them reach their highest potential, NParks has put in place various organisational programmes. These range from continuous learning to organisational excellence initiatives, and charity work, which allow another avenue for our staff to contribute to the society.

NURTURING OUR TALENT

The Trade Certificate in Horticulture from Singapore Botanic Garden’s Training and Certification Branch continues to provide an avenue for ground staff to upgrade themselves. Two sponsored staff members are expected to graduate from the Diploma in Horticulture and Landscape Management course in mid 2004.

NParks also conducted a comprehensive assessment of the skills levels of our 250 horticulture workers. The project, which received strong support from the Amalgamated Union of Public Daily Rated Workers, aims to certify employees under the National Skills Recognition System. Certification enables NParks workers to be nationally recognised for their horticulture skills for lifelong employability.

communication, supporting NParks’ goals of enhanced green recreation and community-based programmes. NParks continued to achieve the public sector target of 100 learning hours per staff through increased in-house training.

NParks also sponsors talented staff on a wide variety of local and overseas certification courses, including skills certifications, undergraduate and post-graduate degrees and executive development in areas that will enhance the core competencies of NParks. Currently, at the undergraduate level, two staff are reading recreation and leisure management. Two external scholars were also recruited to read botany and landscape architecture in Australia. Three staff members who pursued post-graduate degrees in public policy, environmental management and landscape architecture have since returned to NParks.

As a further testimony that NParks has a system in place to deliver consistent quality service, it was awarded the ISO 9001 certification in December 2003. The in-built review and continuous improvement requirements of the ISO 9001 system will help ensure that all key work processes meet the needs of customers and stakeholders.

IT IMPROVEMENTS

To increase staff efficiency, NParks continues to enhance its IT systems. Newer network technology such as the multi-protocol label switching technology was adopted to improve our network connectivity. To enhance IT infrastructure and to improve security, reliability, availability, and scalability of IT operations, the latest tested operating systems and security technologies and software were deployed. The area of Parks Management saw upgrades to the Parks Integrated Management System (PRIME), which helps to streamline work processes in handling public feedback. Over at Arboriculture, the upgrade of the Tree Loggers to lighter PDAs with more memory enhanced the efficiency of the tree inspection process.

SERVING OUR COMMUNITY

NParks remains deeply committed to our conviction that we must give back to our community. ‘Care and compassion’ forms one of our core corporate values. This year, NParks staff showed that their hearts were in the right place by their efforts during the annual carnival organised by Gracehaven Children’s Home. The Courtesy and Kindness Movement Committee and volunteers from NParks set up stalls to raise funds for the 150 residents of Gracehaven. NParks also organised a spice and herb garden planting for the Home.
In the same year, the committee held an educational tour of the Eco-Garden in the Singapore Botanic Gardens for 30 primary school students. NParks' staff also organised a guided walk at Fort Canning Park for the Children's Cancer Foundation. Finally, NParks held three blood donation drives, and staff sold tickets for the Red Cross Charity Draw 2003 - Youth in Action for Humanity. For the community efforts, NParks was awarded the SHARE Gold Award 2003 in support of the Community Chest. Between April 2002 and March 2003, more than 700 staff participated in the SHARE contribution.
